Coated legions in 1871, amongst other voids, left waste, untenanted and unoccupied, the historic area, which had been for close upon a century reserved as their parade and exercising ground on review days. The military authorities, always so careful in keeping its fences in repair, handed it over to the Dominion, which made no provision for the purpose. On the 9th March, 1875, the Dominion, Government leased it to the corporation of the city of Quebec for ten years of the lease under which it was held from the Religious Ladies of the Ursulines of Quebec, provided the corporation assumed the conditions of the lease, involving an annual rental of two hundred dollars. The extensive conagrations of 1876, which laid waste one half of St. Louis suburbs, and the consequent impoverished state of the municipal finances prevented the civic authorities from voting any money to maintain in proper...
